Resource Title	Surface water for drinking with minor or no treatments – Demand
Resource Abstract	Integrated water management is one of the main issues for the sustainable development of the Alpine region. Surrounding areas are highly dependent on alpine water and thus, on the ecosystems having an impact on water resources. Therefore, we assess and map the provisioning ecosystem service “Surface water for drinking with minor to no treatment” and provide information on the availability, the use and the abstractions of water resources. Hence, information on water availability as well as on water demands and usages can quickly be analysed, evaluated and visualized in a spatially explicit, cartographic way. Three maps were produced for management authorities, differentiating between surface water availability, water use and water abstraction.

They come on a regional scale and are further downscaled to municipality level based on touristic and demographic data.
